

Media Made Easy announces the availability of the Media Made Easy Olympus systems featuring Media Center

Vidalia, (PRWEB) March 13, 2006 – Media Made Easy, a manufacturer of digital entertainment systems for the consumer, today announced their new line of products, the Media Made Easy Olympus standard definition digital media systems.

Featuring an ultra-quiet fan system in a slim tower design, the Media Made Easy Olympus media systems are designed to offer affordable digital entertainment servers for the consumers living room. The system comes complete with Media Made Easy's value-added applications for recording audio sources (including music, FM radio and Internet radio) and for converting proprietary media center recorded TV files into standard video formats with the commercials removed.

"We're amazed at the continued customer interest in living-room ready media systems below the $1000 level," said Ronald Schwab, CEO of Media Made Easy. "We decided to redesign our standard definition lineup to get models below that price point." He added, "We've engineered the systems using a fantastic media motherboard from MSI and offer consumers choices for tuners, storage and performance."

Featuring AMD Athlon processors, Hauppauge standard definition tuners, onboard or PCIexpress video, 8 channel 7.1 surround sound and cordless operation by mouse, keyboard and remote control, the Media Made Easy Olympus systems offer powerful features at tremendous value. Powered by Microsoft's Windows XP Media Center Edition software the enhanced features include digital quality recorded television, DVD playback, online movie rental, faster music encoding, rich digital photograph slideshows and Internet radio.
